Ma'din Kulliyya of Islamic Science – in Collaboration with SABCeR

The Sayyid Ahmedul Bukhari Centre for Research (SABCeR) is a research initiative under Ma'din Academy that spearheads research activities across the institution. It promotes a culture of academic inquiry by facilitating scholarly research, organising academic seminars, workshops, conferences, discussions, and publications, and providing a platform for intellectual engagement and the dissemination of knowledge.

The Tafsīr Symposium, organised by the Department of Tafsīr & Qur'anic Studies at Ma'din Kulliyya of Islamic Science, in association with SABCeR, explores the methodologies of Qur'anic exegesis and the hermeneutical traditions of the Mufassirūn. The symposium provides an academic platform to engage with classical and contemporary approaches to Qur'anic interpretation, examining the scholarly methods, interpretive principles, and intellectual contributions that have shaped the rich tradition of Tafsīr.

CONCEPT NOTE

Methodologies of Qur'anic Exegesis & the Hermeneutical Traditions of the Mufassirūn

The Qur'an is a living scripture that transcends time and place, continually engaging human intellect and thought. Across centuries, the Islamic intellectual tradition has produced diverse Qur'anic commentaries, each shaped by the exegete's distinct methodology (manhaj) and epistemological framework.

Overlooking these methodological foundations often leads to superficial readings and misinterpretations. A nuanced understanding of Tafsīr therefore requires critical engagement with the interpretive approaches and scholarly objectives of its authors.

Addressing this need, the Tafsīr Symposium, titled Methodologies of Qur'anic Exegesis & the Hermeneutical Traditions of the Mufassirūn, brings together in-depth sessions on Qur'anic exegetical methodologies from the classical to the modern period, alongside academic paper presentations exploring specialised areas of Qur'anic studies.
